Wednesday of First Week of Pentecost

10. "All you need is love."
(The Beatles)

In the end, love is all that matters. Jesus said the greatest commandment was to love God with all our hearts, mind and strength—but, second, we are to love our neighbor as we love ourselves. The Bible says love covers a multitude of sins. It is the hallmark and very genesis of our faith, and our faith is a response to the enormous love God offered to us in the beginning. If all the other ten quotes overwhelm you, if you can just handle one at a time, focus on this one. The Author of love will be more than enough—all that you need. (1 Corinthians 13:13, 1 John 4:7)

Dear Lord, speak to me. Live in me and instruct me. Guide me and help me to honor You, so that when the world sees me, they ultimately notice You. Amen.

Exercise in Faith Seeking Understanding

God's Love and Ours
Dear friends, let us love one another,
for love comes from God.
Everyone who loves has been born of God and knows God.
(1 John 4:7)

Probe: Honest examine yourself:

1. Does your love for others reflect God's love for you?
2. Does your love for God reflect your love for others?
3. Does your love for God and others reflect that you are born of God.
